A Bourbon Ballad They say that we bourhons are dreadful unst.
That of anything new we can learn not a bit—
But we recken this year we can easily show,
Our progress has been not by any means slow.

We followed him strong with a whoop and a shoul Pronounced him a marvel—the only one out; And for him we went with a rollicking run,— For Sam and the barrel—oh, wasn't it fun! But haven't we learned just a little now, pray? We will show you we've learned, though late in the day: Civilians are well enough, kept in their place; But a soldler should lead when you right about face.

The soldier is now our high mighty man-Divillans no longer accord with our plan. We have learned that the war did not utterly fall and one of its "butchers" we cheerfully hall.

Of "the man on horseback" we once were afraid, And we scourged all the men who are soldiers trade: But Hancock the jolly with epanlettes on, Is transformed all at once to our "favorite son."

How it all came about 'tis not easy to tell, And on the details we prefer not to dwell, But there is something about a bright uniform, That we think will yet sweep the country by storm We thought that the barrel might save us before -The barrel and Saminy, and thereby we swore: But they didn't, and though bad bourbons we are By Sam and the barrel we no longer swar.

"A hiraling of Lincoln!" Is that what we said?
No matter, for Abraham rests with the dead;
And seeing 'tis settled that Lincoln was right,
We may just as well claim that we favored the fight.
There is nothing like being upon the right side,
And there we were siways, though sometimes we lied: lied; The union we saved—then gave three times three

A Remarkable Clock.

Mr. Darius L. Goff of Pawtucket has at his residence on Walcott atrest a remarkable clock, which is worthy of especial mention. The clock in the first place has a history, be-ing an heirloom of the Carpenter family of Rehoboth, in whose possession it has been for at least 200 years, and perhaps longer. It came in possession of Mr. Goff, a few years since, he being a connection of the family, and since his ownership of it it has developed powers which for two centuries had him dormant and unknown. It is an oidhad lain dormant and unknown. It is an old-style, tall clock, and occupies a position in the front hall of Mr. Goff's residence, where it regulates the entire household. The clock never requires winding, the front door as it is opened and shut during the day performing that work. Within the dial is also an ingeni-ous mechanism by which the light in the front hall is turned up as darkness approaches, and again is lowered as the ortholox bed-time and again is lowered as the orthodox bed-time draws nigh. As morning dawss, and it is time that the servants bestirred themselves, thu faithful clock rings a bell in the back hall, summoning them to their daily labors. An hour later 2 bell in the front hall warns the family that Crime in the English Army. A parliamentary paper just issued (moved for by Sir Patrick O'Brien) reveals a miserable state of disorder in the British army, and aptly proves the demoralizing tendencies of barrack life. Taking the latest period of one barrack life. THE intelligence of the mosquite is simply The intelligence of the mosquite is simply remarkable. Says a correspondent: A recent visit to a friend's house where these insects largely prevail afforded me an opportunity to study their habits. What first struck me with surprise was the ingenuity they displayed in getting into the house when the windows and doors were protected by screens. It was some time before I discovered that they rode in ou the back of the person entering. I say on the back of the person entering. the back of the person entering. I say on the back because they could never be found on the front part of the person. Another fact I noticed: The moment they were inside the house they would leave the clothing and fly to the walls and wait until the lights were extinguished before biting. That this was an act of intelligence—their riding in on the backs of those entering the hease—is can darkedly proven by the fact that they were not found on the clothing of those going out of the house, but, as I have before observed, tack to the walls at once upon finding themselves on the inside of the house.
